Validity on trains:
Passengers with seat reservation must be able to present at the same time the corresponding ticket.

The right to a reserved seat ends when the passenger has not occupied it 15 minutes after the train's departure. After this time, train staff may allocate a seat that remains free to another passenger.

Passengers who temporarily leave their reserved seat must ensure that other users can see that it is occupied.

Transport companies are authorised to allocate seats other than those indicated on the reservation card (cancellation of carriages, double bookings).

The current tariff of Swiss transport companies, in particular the common ancillary tariff regulations for direct service and regional transport networks (T600) as well as the tariffs of the regional transport and fare networks, apply to the use of E-Tickets.
